Altered Images Limited

Environmental Policy

The management and staff of Altered Images are conscious of the risks that our business activities may pose to the environment and we are committed to minimising the impact these activities may have.

We are a WEEE registered Company and, where items of electrical equipment are not capable of being repaired or re-used they are disposed of using the mechanism provided under the WEEE regulations

We strive, wherever possible, to recycle the waste that our daily activities produce and we do our utmost to minimise our use of resources that may have a detrimental effect on the environment.

Furthermore, we do not purchase packing materials, Altered Images re-uses packaging waste to prepare items for delivery.

Delivery of goods from Altered Images are completed using our electric vehicles where possible. At present, only volumetric space and distances are restrictive to being solely reliant on onward delivery by exclusively electric vehicles.

Altered Images embraces new technology and we are always willing to accept new methods of operating that may offer potential benefits to the world we live in. New suggestions and ideas, from within and without the Company, are always carefully considered by the management of the Company and will be implemented if a worthwhile benefit is perceived.
